

Sonia's anti-national agenda

(Dated 7/3/2010)

In the bomb blast that took place at Pune on 13 February, 2010, 17 people, including 5 foreigners, were killed and about 60 people were injured. The incident happened close on the decision by the UPA government to resume the peace talks with Pakistan . Just a few days earlier, addressing a jihadi gathering at Karachi on February 5, JuD supremo Hafiz Sayeed had thundered that Pakistan will continue with its jihad until they liberate not only Kashmir but also Hyderabad . He is the same person whom Pakistani leaders described as the chief of only a charitable trust when India named him as the mastermind behind the Mumbai terror attacks and sought action against him. Sayeed was however detained in December 2008 under the Maintenance of Public Order Act (MPO), after the UN Security Council had declared the JuD as an alias of the LeT. But Pakistan had not proscribed the JuD and so he could out as a free man soon after his detention. Ordering his release, the judge had then said that he got nothing before him to keep Sayeed inside. In fact he was taken under preventive custody many times in the past in connection with similar terror attacks in India . For instance after the December 2001 Parliament attack and also after the July 2006 serial train blasts, he was taken under detention. But each time he could manage his release soon after, as the charges against him were framed in such a way that it guaranteed his certain and immediate release.

Thanks to the policies of the UPA government, the bomb culture has come to stay with us. During the last five years hundreds of bomb blasts had taken place in different parts of the country, engineered mostly by jihadi terrorists and a few by ULFA activists with the help of jihadi outfits like HUJI. Thousands of people were killed and many more thousands were injured in these blasts. Some of the terror strikes were so ghastly like the July 2006 serial train blasts in Mumbai and November 2008 Mumbai terror attacks. But the UPA government is unmoved. It does not want to do anything about it, except chanting of peace 'mantra'. All the accused arrested so far in connection with various terrorist incidents in the country had admitted that each one of them had undergone terror training in one or other terror camps in Pakistan and their instructors in those camps included retired as well as serving ISI and army officers. But till this day India has not taken a single retaliatory step against Pakistan emboldening it to carry on with its brutal attacks on India at regular intervals. After the Mumbai terror attacks in November, 2008, because of the scale of the attacks and violence, there was strong speculation both within and outside India about some kind of retaliation by India . But still nothing happened. Because, the US will not allow India to take any retaliatory action. Its argument was that by carrying out such mindless terror attacks, the terrorists wanted to provoke a war between India and Pakistan and by resorting to any retaliatory action, India will be playing right into the hands of the terrorists. So as per this logic, jihadi terrorist groups in Pakistan with the full support and patronage of certain state agencies would continue to punish us with brutal terror attacks at regular intervals and we should take all such battering passively because of the "or else we will be playing into the hands of the terrorists" theory. All the European allies of the US and the UN leadership also strongly supported this illogical and ill-conceived stand of the US . In the past also, It was because of the immense pressure from this US-led western lobby that India could not act against Pakistan despite grave provocations. But the US stance is seriously flawed. When the US says that the terrorists are attacking India as they want a war between India and Pakistan , it exempts Pakistan from any involvement in the terror attacks in India , which is totally wrong. It is as clear as daylight that Pakistani state agencies were involved in every terror attack in India . Still, on the advice of the US , India has been cooperating with Pakistan to bring the masterminds of the November 2008 terror attacks to book. And all that we have achieved so far is a dossier exchange circus with India submitting a lot of vital pieces of evidences, links and clues and Pakistani authorities consistently ridiculing and dismissing all our findings and demands. Thus listening to the sermons from the US and acting against the national interest, we decided not to take any punitive action against Pakistan even after the Mumbai attacks. But while showing such extreme restraint even in the face of gravest provocation, Union home minister had repeatedly warned that any fresh terror attack from Pakistan will not go unpunished. The prime minister, home minister and the home secretary had also repeatedly asserted that peace talks with Pakistan will not be resumed with out a breakthrough in the Mumbai attacks. However on February 4, 2010, the UPA government, flouting all its promises and declarations took a U-turn and decided to resume secretary-level peace talks with Pakistan . Even after the bomb blast in German bakery in Pune in which 17 people were killed and about 60 people were injured, we decided to go ahead with the said peace talks. Why this sudden U-turn in our stance? What is happening in India ? Who is ruling this country? Is it Manmohan Singh? Sonia Gandhi? Or America through Sonia Gandhi?

First of all we have to understand that it is the USA and not Pakistan which is our greater enemy. Kashmir problem is as old as partition itself and both England and the US had from the beginning sided with Pakistan . Given a free hand, the Indian army t would have settled the Kashmir issue in 1948 itself when the Pakistani armed- tribesmen and army personnel invaded and occupied a part of Kashmir . Instead, our first prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru influenced by Lady Irwin Mountbatten took the issue to the United Nations and thereby internationalized the issue. Though the J&K had joined the Union of India through the Instrument of Succession signed between Maharaja Hari Singh and Indian authorities, both the USA and England were opposed to Kashmir's accession with India . Leaders of both these countries knowing fully well Nehru's weakness for Edwina cleverly used her to exert influence on Nehru to take the Kashmir issue to the United Nations, successfully preventing India from recapturing POK back by force. This episode has been mentioned by Edwina's daughter in her auto-biography.

The US and British leaders had an inherent dislike for India's first prime minister Nehru because of his admiration for socialist principles and his personal ambition to emerge as a leader of non-aligned nations, independent of the imperialist block. It may be this lack of trust in Nehru that had prompted the US to be openly aligned with a pliable Pakistan from the beginning. India's nuclear ambitions and defiance also were a thorny issue for the US camp. However the greatest defiance that India showed to the US was during the Bangladesh war in 1971 when India helped erstwhile East Pakistan to be liberated and reborn as Bangladesh . Despite the US navy's action of sending its 7 th. Fleet to the Bay of Bengal as a warning signal, India on the strength of its peace and friendship treaty with the Soviet Union had gone ahead and liberated Bangladesh, to the extreme anger, annoyance and embarrassment of the United States. The American strategists who reviewed the military defeat of Pakistan in the Bangladesh war and the resultant setback suffered by the American interests in the region had chalked out a series of drastic measures, both long term and short term, to bring about a positive change in the balance of power position in the sub-continent. The balkanization of India has been made a definite, but long term goal, of the US after the 1971 war as India was proving to be a big threat to the US interests in South Asia . Some political assassinations that took place later in the region were also considered as among the proposed drastic moves. It was with the full concurrence and support of the US that Pakistan adopted terror as a strategy to fight a proxy war in Kashmir from the eighties. President (Gen).Zia-Ul-Haq, who devised this strategy in consultation with the CIA, took about 10 years to prepare the necessary spade work for the implementation of this terror project meant to bleed India to death. It did bleed India for all these years and a large number of security personnel, civilians and militants were killed in action in this proxy war. Then the inevitable happened. The terror strategy soon back-fired so badly that not a single day passes now without a terror strike by Al Qaida and Talibani elements in Pakistan .

The biggest problem faced by us today is American intervention in India . The entire Kargil operation was planned by the CIA. The US authorities had condemned it as a misadventure and had asked the Pakistani army and civil authorities to pull out their troops. In a friendly gesture in response, the NDA government had foolishly accepted the American mediation and offered to start a peace dialogue with Pakistan . For the first time in the history, India was ready to negotiate with Pakistan about the disputed status of Jammu & Kashmir. This was clearly a trap. President Musharraf, when sought to know the purpose served by the Kargil war, had proudly told some journalists that it was due to Kargil that India for the first time offered to negotiate on Kashmir. The NDA government had subsequently taken some cosmetic steps in opening up the borders by starting a few cross-border bus services. With the installation of a pro-US and Congress-led UPA government at the Centre in 2004, a lot more confidence-building measures were taken by the two countries for normalization of relations like introduction of more bus and train services, establishment of border trade posts, etc. People from both the countries including political and militant leaders were allowed to make frequent trips to each other's country to meet whomsoever they wanted to meet. However none of these measures helped to bring about any normalization in the terror situation in India . On the other hand lifting of travel restrictions and easy access to each other between terrorists from both sides of the border actually led to many-fold increase in terror and violence. The resumption of cross-border bus and train services between the two countries led to increased inflow of fake Indian currency notes printed in Pakistan 's government press to India . The bomb blasts and terror attacks which were earlier confined to Kashmir and North-East now spread to every nook and corner of India . And still the US is pressing for more confidence-building measures with Pakistan . Why?

The US is very well aware that the LeT and other terror groups which are routinely involved in serial bomb blasts and other forms of terror at various places in India are given all possible assistance by the Pakistani state agencies. These groups are in fact considered as highly valuable assets by the Pakistani military and ISI. The US knows all about the terror and criminal empire and operational activities of Karachi-based underworld don Dawood Ibrahim, who is wanted in India in connection with various terror and criminal cases. The US knew fully well about the involvement PAK- ISI in the 2008 car-bomb attack on Indian embassy in Kabul in which four Indians including a Brigadier and an IFS officer were killed. The safe asylum given to five accused in the Kandahar hijack case and many other terrorists and criminals wanted in India in Pakistan are also known to the US authorities. Pakistan is printing fake Indian currency in three of its government presses, which no civilized government will do. Pakistan is a failed state. Out of its 62 years of existence, it was under military rule for 32 years. But still the US is close friend and strategic ally of Pakistan . Because, it is immaterial for the US whether Pakistan has a civilian ruler or a military ruler as long as the ruler's allegiance is with the US .

Despite Pakistan 's very close links with various terrorist outfits like LeT and HUJI, the US forced India into a peace dialogue with Pakistan and in the name of confidence-building measures further pressured India to take certain measures which were bound to have an adverse impact on our security interests. The fact that this was done without even insisting the total dismantling of the terror infrastructure in Pakistani territory and without the extradition of all the wanted accused sheltered in Pakistan clearly indicates that the American intention was to encourage terror in India . The US is not allowing India to hit back at the perpetrators of the terror based in Pakistani territory and instead is forcing India to suffer all the battering and indignities silently in the interest of peace. The truth is that the US is doing it deliberately to punish India . The US is a partner in terror with Pakistan . The US and Pakistan are together taking revenge against India for its misdeeds in 1971. After the Mumbai terror attacks, there was no fresh jihadi terror attack for a year as there was mounting public pressure for a retaliatory attack. Now all such talks about retaliatory attacks have vanished and the bomb attacks have also resumed. It is so very easy to keep a bag containing a bomb in a market place, cinema theatre or coffee house and kill hundreds of innocent people. No amount of security alert can effectively check it, unless we take prompt and tough action against the origin of terror. The US wants continued terror attacks in India and the resultant economic setback to the country. The tourism, IT and other industries should suffer. The investors should keep away. There should be total chaos and mayhem in the country.

Invitation to terrorists from POK

Pakistan no more needs to take much trouble and pain in sending infiltrators to Jammu & Kashmir. Heeding to the recommendations of the J&K government and PDP leadership, Union Home Minister P.Chidambaram has given an open invitation to all Kashmiri terrorists in POK to come home and settle down in Jammu Kashmir. He also promised a scheme for the proper rehabilitation and reintegration of all those who had gone across the line of actual control for various reasons since 1989. To avail this general amnesty all that they have to do is to give a promise that they have left militancy. They are all Harichandras and they are not likely to break their promise. Since there is no record of the actual number of youths who have crossed over to the other side during the last 20 years, the J&K government has now sought the help of the government of POK in obtaining the actual figures of Kashmiri militants who have taken shelter in POK for giving shape to the rehabilitation programme. Giving these details to the media people J&K Minister of State for Revenue and Tourism Nasir Aslam Wani claimed on 12th. Feb.2010 that almost two-third of the population from border villages have migrated to POK after 1990. The minister's statement is an indication that under the pretext of the said scheme, tens of thousands of Kashmiri militants from across the border would now be rehabilitated in the Kashmir valley.

This general amnesty scheme for the Kashmiri terrorists announced by the UPA government is the most atrocious, stupid and dangerous move which will have serious implications for the security interests of the country. Along with many Indian Muslims, this scheme will also allow thousands of Pakistani infiltrators and other civilian Muslims from the POK to come and settle down in J&K to inflate the Muslim population in the state, avail the rehabilitation assistance from the government and to strengthen the separatist movement in the state. Even a veteran Congress-I leader like Ghulam Nabi Azad, a Union minister and former chief minister of J&K, had opposed this amnesty move and had warned the government that since there was no way of checking the identity of those who crossed over to the POK, the proposed move will only facilitate the entry of thousands of infiltrators and trouble-makers into the valley. The proposed general amnesty scheme is definitely a part of the US plot to allow Pakistan to annex Kashmir through a bloodless coup. It is now certain that under the American pressure and dictates India is steadily moving towards the full implementation of the 4-point formula suggested by Gen. Musharraf in 2006 to settle the Kashmir dispute. The pull out of regular troops and also paramilitary forces has already started in phases. Soon there will be a unified borderless Kashmir where currencies of both India and Pakistan would be a legal tender in both parts of Kashmir and Passports or visa would not be required by the Kashmiris to cross the border. According to press reports, Indian army has started clearing all land mines laid in the border areas along the Indo-Pak border to avert any harm to the people crossing the borders. With the grant of the promised autonomy and self-rule to the Kashmiris, India with no physical or administrative control over J&K can then remain only as an onlooker. It will then take only a couple of years for the unified Kashmir to become an integral part of Pakistan . It is very tragic that the prime minister and many senior Union ministers, bureaucrats and security experts have become willing or silent parties to this heinous conspiracy hatched by the US for the transfer of Jammu Kashmir to Pakistan through treacherous means. Kashmir is the sole issue behind the strained relations between India and Pakistan . We fought three wars and a border war with Pakistan mainly because of Kashmir . We lost thousands of our jawans in these wars and many more thousands were injured. We spent more money in Kashmir for the economic upliftment and welfare of the people than any other state in India . We also incurred huge expenditure for deployment of regular troops and paramilitary forces for guarding the borders and maintenance of internal security all these years. If we are now going to settle the Kashmir problem by giving it away to Pakistan in a deceptive manner, why did we make all these sacrifices in the past? And why to give away the entire J&K state when the Kashmir valley is the only Muslim majority area in the state. Can all those jawans who sacrificed their lives for safeguarding the unity and integrity of the country rest in peace?
